CHICAGO, July 20. Justice Ball to-day rendered a decision in the civic federation vs. Chicago base ball club case, which was tried two weeks ago. He fined Captain Anson and his players $3 and costs each for playing ball on Sunday.

DEFENDER AND VIGILANT.
Both Yachts Make a Good Showing In Saturday's Race.

NEW YORK, July 20. The Vigilant made a good showing to-day against the Defender and was beaten on lapsed time only 2 minutes and 45 seconds in a 60 mile run. It was a practical victory for the Defender although it is possible that when both yachts have been measured the time allowance may be sufficient to wipe out the Defender's small advantage. After the race to-day the officials would not announce that either boat had won, but contented themselves with saying that the Defender outsailed the Vigilant on the elapsed time.

From the best unofficial measurement so far obtainable, however, it is thought the time allowance will be between one and two minutes, so in all probability the Defender has put a victory to her credit in her first race, though by an exceedingly narrow margin. The official measurements will probably not be made public for some time, but they may announce in Monday's race which is the winner. While all the yachtsmen are congratulating each other that the new American champion is apparently faster and better than the old one, they feel pride, too, in the fact that the cup defender of 1894 is still in racing form and able to give the Defender so stiff an argument.

Opinions were freely expressed after the race that either boat could beat the Valkyrie III in anything like a good sailing breeze. The full official time was as follows:

Name.	Start.	Finish.	Elapsed time.
Defender	11.30 25	2.49.05	3.18.40
Vigilant	11.30.50	2.52.16	3.21.26

To-day's race was the first of two contests arranged by the New York Yacht Club for a special $200 silver cup.

TERRIBLE DEPRAVITY.
Young Colored Girl with Natural Criminal Propensities.

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 20. A report from Fairfield county says that Anna Bell, a fourteen years old negro girl, disembowelled a three months old baby and then hanged a six years old boy over a well and burned him with a poker because he refused to agree to say that he had killed the child. The girl had been sent to the house to cook dinner by her parents, who were working in a field near by. In a few minutes she called the parents and told them the boy had killed the baby. The boy was found suspended over the well and he told the story of the girl's crime. The same girl, two months ago, was found disinterring a corpse to rob it of a breast pin. Three years ago she killed a baby, but was acquitted at her trial because of her age.

PIRATES AT WORK.
Stripping the Wrecked Steamer Mexico.

FATHER POINT, Que., July 20. The steamer Gannon from Bristol reported that the wrecked steamer Mexico is in the same position on Belle Isle. The only part of the vessel not looted by Newfoundland pirates is the submerged portion of the stern which they cannot get at.

ENFORCING THE LAW.

New York Experiences Very "Dry" Sabbath.

Never Before Has Sale of Liquors Been so Generally Stopped.

Every Possible Policeman Put on Duty to Watch Saloons.

NEW YORK, July 20. Never before in the history of the city, many people said, was the selling of beer and liquors so generally stopped as to-day. It was almost absolutely "dry" in the city from the Battery to the annexed district and from river to river. There was no faltering in the earnestness of the police, as a number of saloon keepers discovered early in the day. Never before was there such police watch over the usual places for selling beer and liquors.

Every possible man that could be used was put on excise duty. The men in many cases were made to undergo extra hours of duty to watch saloons. Policemen kept their eyes on all side doors to saloons, and so close was the guard that all chances of quiet business were rendered impracticable. Many were the devices resorted to by saloon keepers to carry on business despite the vigilance of the police but only well known patrons were admitted. The sweltering weather was thirst-creating, and especially in the tenement house district was there a great demand for beer.

At some fashionable restaurants or cafes in the Tenderloin district it could easily be obtained by those whose dress indicated that they were not spies. Champagne was sold or drunk without meals. The bars in the big hotels were closed. Soda water fountains on the street and in drug stores were not molested and they did a big business.

MAY HAVE BEEN KILLED.

Fears for the Safety of Party of Princeton Students.

DENVER, Col., July 21. It is feared that a party of Princeton students have fallen into the hands of the Bannock Indians. Nearly two weeks ago the students forming the geological expedition went through Union Pass and since that telegrams have been received here from them without finding any means of delivery. The students were on the way to National Park and were due on the return about the end of July. They are in a dangerous country if they are alive.

The government has recently been stirred to great activity as orders were received at Fort Washakie for the sending of an expedition of troops. Only 43 men are at the post and the expedition cannot be very formidable, but it is the best the army can do.

Reports from Jackson's Hole say there are fully 300 Indians assembled there and of that number fifty are Shoshonese from the Wyoming reservation.

Another report from Fort Washakie says two Indian police and judges sent to Jackson Hole nearly two weeks ago have returned. They were forcibly detained by the Bannocks and had to escape by strategy.

TO HEAD OFF FILIBUSTERS.

Orders Intended to Ward Off Expeditions to Hawaii.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., July 21. A sensation was caused in customs circles by the receipt of cipher orders from the Treasury Department to exercise the closest scrutiny of all vessels clearing from the sound for Hawaii and not to issue clearance papers to a vessel bound there until the same has undergone a minute inspection by the treasury officials.

The orders result from secret information sent the Hawaiian government to the effect that another filibustering expedition is being fitted out on the sound, for the purpose of overthrowing the Dole government.

Several Counties in New York Swept by Storm, Doing Much Damage.

Cyclonic Storm Kills Several Persons.

ZANESVILLE, O., July 21. A wind storm accompanied by heavy rainfall burst upon the campgrounds near Roseville, Ohio, this afternoon, uprooting trees and overturning buggies. The storm was cyclonic.

Two persons were killed and several injured.

The storm burst over the campground while services were being held in the tabernacle and was all over in a few seconds.

A large tree was blown over, demolishing a corner of the tabernacle and instantly killing Mrs. Clement Wilson, of Zanesville. Patrick Doselm, of Zanesville, was caught by the falling tree and his breast was crushed. He died an hour afterwards.

Miss Clea Ansel, of Saltillon, had a leg crushed, and Lydia Jenkins, of Zanesville, was seriously injured.

Several other persons received slight injuries.

A SCENE OF PANIC.

Great Excitement During Funeral of M. Stambuloff.

SOFIA, July 20. The funeral procession of M. Stambuloff started at 3 o'clock this afternoon for the cathedral where the services were held. M. Stambuloff's mother and M. Petkoff, a personal friend, followed the hearse. There were present all the foreign envoys with the exception of the representative of Belgium and 200 friends of the deceased. When the scene of the assassination was reached the procession halted and M. Petkoff delivered a harangue.

Suddenly a revolver was fired and somebody cried: "Run for your lives." The onlookers were panic stricken and rushed in all directions. Mounted gendarmes hurried up and order was restored. The diplomats withdrew and the gendarmes escorted the remains to the cathedral. When the mourners arrived at the cemetery they met an organized crowd of friends of Major Panitza, who was executed for treason.

This crowd had decked the graves of Maj Panitza and his accomplices with flowers and Bulgarian flags. They barred the passage of the hearse containing the remains of M. Stambuloff and threatened those accompanying it. A detachment of cavalry separated the two parties. The coffin was lowered into the grave in silence. Very few of the mourners reached the grave. The city was much excited.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 20. The bodies of Henry Halbferster and his wife Lizzie were found in their room in Mrs. Richards' house early this evening and the discovery has revealed a murder and suicide. The couple has been missing since 10 o'clock last night and it was not known that they were in the house until Albert Hamilton, a youth, went up stairs to close some windows. He found the door fastened on the inside with a chair. He pushed it in and found the bodies.

Halbferstar was intemperate and two weeks ago his wife left him. She wrote from New York and last Monday he went away, saying he would return with her. They came back Thursday evening and spent last evening at a neighbor's until about 11 o'clock. The Richards family were away in the evening and did not return until after the tragedy has occurred.

SOFIA, July 20. Mme. Stambuloff has rejected the offer of the State to pay the funeral expenses of her murdered husband.

It is reported that in 1894 ex-Premier Stambouloff despatched many important documents to friends abroad in order to keep them out of the hands of the enemy.

FOUR MEN KILLED.

A Terrible Grade Crossing Accident Sunday.

Train Ran Over Pleasure Party Near Williamstown, Mass.

Men Had Been Drinking and Didn't Stop to See Track Clear.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 21. "Duguway," two miles west of Williamstown, was the scene of a terrible grade crossing disaster this afternoon.

Four men were killed and two others escaped death by the merest chance.

The party was returning from a drive to Pownal, Vt., and stopped a few feet from the crossing to allow an east bound freight to pass.

A passenger train, west bound, came thundering down the other track, hidden from the party by the freight. No sooner had the last freight car passed than the team rushed on the tracks to be struck immediately by the swift express.

The names of the four men killed, as nearly as could be ascertained, to-night are Nelson Trude, Peter Roche, Tatro and Oliver Dudley, all of North Adams.

The last named was a clerk in Cavanaugh's grocery story. The others worked in a shoe store. The men who escaped were of Williamstown. One had left the wagon to get on the freight and the others tried to keep the men from starting across so soon but they refusing to stop, he jumped out. He said all had been drinking.

TENSION RELAXED.

Situation in Sweden Less Strained But Disturbing Rumor is Heard.

BERLIN, July 21. Whether the friendship of Emperor William for King Oscar had the effect of impressing the majority in the Swedish storthing with the necessity of proceeding with caution, it is a fact that the tension between the King and the storthing is greatly relaxed. Another effort is being made to form a coalition ministry composed chiefly of moderates. The King is greatly gratified at finding that his opponents conceded the royal grants in the shape he demanded.

The only disturbing rumor now abroad is that a committee of radicals have privately agreed to make application in the storthing for an extraordinary credit of 11,500,000 kroner for the purpose of buying 2 iron clad warships, 3 torpedo boats, a quantity of new rifles and ammunition and the construction of fortified posts at Christiania and Berge and Drontheim.

In the meantime the radicals are keeping very quiet about events.

MONDAY JULY 22 1895

Must Face Their Record.

The frantic efforts of the Democratic [illegible] to divert public attention from the tariff as the chief issue in the next campaign are easily understood. The Democrats are afraid of the question and very naturally desire to talk about something else, hence all the Administration shouters are now bending their entire energies to a discussion of the currency questions. It matters not that the party has always been the steadfast opponent of sound currency, and that it is there [illegible] for Carlisle and Hoke Smith and various and sundry news[illegible] to turn a complete somer[illegible] in order to assume a part in the [illegible] anything is preferable to the [illegible] of the tariff as the one great [illegible] before the people [illegible]

The Crime of 1873

[illegible] Morrill of Vermont in an ar[ticle in the] New York Independent has [illegible] about the "crime of [1873]." Mr Morrill was a member of the [illegible] and knows whereof [he spea]ks. This is what he says on the [subject]:

[illegible] three years of consideration by the [Tre]asury Department and by Congress, [it] omitted to provide for the fur[ther] coinage of the silver dollar, none [h]aving been coined for nearly forty years [an]d only eight millions had ever been [coin]ed. At that time the only currency in use as money was depreciated paper, a legal tender for all debts, and debts then [on a sp]ecie basis could have been paid in gold at about two per cent less cost than in silver. It was sought to avoid its in[stab]ility which followed sooner, perhaps, than was expected, and this prudent and [li]ttle act has been the ark which has saved our people from being wholly over[w]helmed by the silver flood.

Some members of Congress, who have spunkily confessed ignorance of its pas[sa]ge appear to have been a "wool gath[er]ing" ever since. Only when shrinking silver suggested its use in payment of debts with less than had been promised was the wrong tenderly commiserated. The act, however, is still assailed by [de]magogues who use a big word, un[kn]own to such lexicographers as John[son], and swear at "the crime of '73, which demonetized silver." If this bug[a]boo word means that the United States, [of] the world, had less silver money than [in] 1873, or that our silver dollar was de[pri]ved of a legal-tender prerogative, it is a gross falsehood. According to the [Di]rector of the mint there has been an [in]crease of the world's silver coinage [si]nce 1873 to the amount of $13,000,000,-[00]0, or an increase of fifty per cent. of [th]e world's silver coinage, of which the United States contributed the largest [sh]are.

The New Louisiana Outrage.

The New York Mail and Express says: [Th]e State of Louisiana seems to be in [so]me danger of again forgetting that the [wa]r is over. The proposed constitutional amendment, which is the result of Democratic genius, has for its object a limitation of the suffrage to those who can read and write, or who pay taxes on property assessed at $200 or more. The confessed purpose of this amendment is to disfranchise the negro, and it is to the credit of the Republicans of the State that they have decided to make this the main issue in the coming campaign and to fight it with determination and to the end.

While certain voting qualifications of this sort have long survived the spirit of progress in the North, this offers no justification of the proposition to rob the Louisiana negro of his citizenship. Every Northern State has provided ample facilities in rudimentary education for every man, woman and child, and it has been urged that responsibility for illiteracy must therefore, rest entirely with the individual. Louisiana, however, is far behind her Southern States in that she makes it adequate provision for public education and the penalty for ignorance in the negro cannot be justly visited upon him. The new scheme savors of highway robbery, and is worthy only of a Tillman.

Another un-American point in the Democratic amendment is that it gives the Legislature the right to change the suffrage qualifications without submitting the question to a popular vote. Verily, Louisiana is in need of an "educational campaign" in a literal sense.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States and of other countries have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation your children may be kept well and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

LOOKING OVER FIELD

The Strong Unionist Majority in the Next Parliament.

People Asking What the Prime Minister Will Do With It.

The Latest From the Elections in England -- Other Foreign News.

LONDON July 20. Now that a strong Unionist majority in the next parliament is assured, people are beginning to ask what Lord Salisbury, the Prime Minister, will do with it. Born robust, will it survive the full natural term of the parliamentary session, seven years. Of course the Unionists are confident that it will, and their confidence in its vigorous life for the full term is built on the solidity of the party when it was in opposition and the seeming absence of dangerous elements of discord. The Liberals comfort themselves by reverting to the past experience of parliaments with great majorities which majorities have always shown a tendency to fall to pieces. They also have special reasons to anticipate that the present or coming Unionist majority will not prove an exception to this experience.

Judging from the results of the elections thus far held there is a strong probability that the purely conservative majority will attain such dimensions as will render that party independent of Mr Chamberlain and his allies. It is a notorious fact that the genuine conservatives fear and detest Mr Chamberlain. The old supporters of Lord Salisbury, whose claims to office have been overlooked in the formation of the government in favor of liberal unionists will certainly soon enter into a cabal to oust the latter if the party shall be able to act without the support of the liberal unionists. Much depends upon the maintenance of ministerial harmony in the future program of the party, which went into the campaign with no announced program except, to use the words of Lord Salisbury, the program of dissolution.

If Mr Chamberlain consents to abandon every liberal measure with which his name is still associated and confines himself to his recently formulated social platform he will be likely to remain in the cabinet but it will be difficult for him and his followers to submit to a reactionist policy like that embodied in sectarian education, which Lord Salisbury is credited with intending to promote. It will be still worse for the liberal unionists if the cabinet should seek to gratify the internal yearning common to the whole conservative party for some return to protection. It may be remarked that the new Parliament will contain a considerable increase in the number of protectionist members.

The Duke of Devonshire, president of the council, had a prospective conservative revolt in view, when he issued a letter last Wednesday in which he defined the position of the Liberal Unionists, saying that they were not fused with the Conservatives, but were their allies until the ghost of Home Rule should be laid aside, which is a somewhat different position from that announced at a meeting some time since of the National Conservative Association when for the first time in its history Mr Chamberlain and the Duke of Devonshire leaders respectively in the House of Commons and the House of Lords of the Liberal Unionists were guests. It was then implied that the relation between the two parties had become such that it would not be long before complete fusion would be known as the national party, but from present appearances the harp of harmony then fingered by the speakers already has a broken string.

Lord Salisbury has the advantage of months before he will be obliged to disclose his program. After the swearing in of members after the House of Commons meets in the second week in August, nothing need be done beyond securing supplies. Nothing will be done before actual work is entered upon early in February. The Irish question is likely to be acutely to the fore if events verify current report. The physical force party who had been organizing to compel action by the liberals were prepared to make such hostile demonstrations as would show that Irish discontent would not brook longer delay in satisfying the Irish demands. It is stated that secret drilling has been widely revived in Ireland by old military tents. A number of well known members of the Irish communities in London, Glasgow and Liverpool have left within the past month for Ireland, making no secret to their compatriots that something was brewing in which they meant to share. The triumph of the unionists and prospective coercion may be giving an impetus to the secret societies and may precipitate outbreaks in Ireland.

International Conference at Ottawa —Parliamentary Paper Issued Relative to Resolutions Adopted

LONDON, July 20. A parliamentary paper has been issued containing the despatches of the Marquis of Ripon, Colonial Secretary in Rosebery cabinet, to the governors of Canada, Australia and Cape Colony stating the government's views on the resolutions adopted by the intercolonial conference at Ottawa. The Colonial Secretary explains at length why the government was of the opinion that differential duties in Great Britain in favor of colonial produce and vice versa, would not be calculated to strengthen the ties between the mother country and her colonies, while they would be exceedingly prejudicial to British commerce and not ultimately beneficial to the colonies. He also urges arguments in objection to the resolution in favor of preferential treatment between the colonies themselves. He points out the practical disadvantages that would probably follow a renunciation of the commercial treaties with Germany and Belgium.

SHOWED UP WELL.

Defender Wins Her First Race with Vigilant.

Crosses the Finish Line One Mile and a Half Ahead.

Decided She is a Better Light Weather Boat Than Vigilant

NEW YORK, July 20. The gallant white and gold Defender rode at anchor off Bay Ridge this morning with her clean cut hull and towering [illegible] visible through the haze which hung over the water of New York bay. As she rose and fell with the motion of the water she seemed to pull gently at her anchor hawser like a charger chafing at the bit and anxious to be away. There was but a faint breeze stirring in the early morning but when the haze began to fade away before the rays of the sun the breeze freshened from the south and the knowing ones predicted a racing wind for the first trial of the boat which all Americans expect to show such powers on the water that Lord Dunraven will go home to England without the America's cup.

The Defender lay at anchor at Bay Ridge all night having arrived at sundown yesterday. Her opponent the Vigilant anchored in the Horseshoe inside of Sandy Hook last night and was near the scene of contest this morning. On her as on the Defender the crew was early astir, decks were scrubbed down, spars and sails inspected and deck fittings made snug. At 7.45 A M the journey to Sandy Hook was begun. Although the starting hour was somewhat early there was nevertheless a large crowd of yachtsmen on the club [illegible] to see the racer off. As she started down the bay there was a royal salute [illegible] the fleet consisting of a booming of cannon and the screaming of [illegible] whistles. All the way down the bay the big boat was greeted with salutes [from] passing steamers and excursion boats.

At 9 o'clock the Defender after a short wait in the cove lay in order to hoist her sail [illegible] set out to Sandy Hook on her way to the starting point off Sandy Hook lightship. Half an hour later the Vigilant also passed out [illegible] starting place. The course [illegible] outside of Sandy Hook [illegible] international races of 1893 were sailed and where the trial races and the [illegible] test with the Valkyrie will take place. The New York Yacht Club offered a $200 silver cup for the big single stickers in order to give them a chance to try their qualities in the water and [illegible] which they will be most likely to encounter in the defense of the America's cup.

It was the Defender's first race and her first taste of Sandy Hook weather. The opportunity to see the new boat and witness her behavior when pushed by a good a yacht as the Vigilant [illegible] be drawing [illegible] bay. The best [illegible] the [illegible] the owners and builder [illegible] the actual ones [illegible] all 126 feet 6 inches [illegible] beam [illegible] draught 19 feet [illegible] total sail area about 13000 square feet.

The start was at 11 30. The Defender [illegible] The Vigilant crossed at 11 [illegible] boats crossed on the starboard tack [illegible] just after crossing the Defender went about on the port tack and stood in toward the Jersey [illegible] The Vigilant stood off five minutes and then [illegible] port to the [illegible] boats brought out [illegible] a fair crossing the line [illegible] [illegible] a mile more than the Vigilant.

JULY MAGAZINES.

Review of Reviews.

The leaders of the current number of the Review of Reviews are an instructive article by the editor of Bradstreet's entitled Wall Street and the Credit of the Government; an interesting sketch of Sir Henry Parkes, one of the political leaders of New South Wales, at 80, and Mexico as the Cradle of Man's Primitive Traditions. These articles are finely illustrated. In the Progress of the World department considerable space is devoted to the recent changes that have taken place in President Cleveland's cabinet. All the leading questions of the day are ably discussed in this department, and the many excellent portraits which are given add much to the reader's pleasure. for July is a mammoth publication containing 176 pages in the body of the magazine. It presents a number of thoughtful papers by representative thinkers, dealing with live subjects and problems of special interest. The two subjects that stand out most prominently are psychic investigation and a discussion of the age of consent laws. An interesting series of social and economic papers by representative women opens in this number. The initial papers discuss the question "Is the Single Tax Enough?" and are from the pens of Sarah M. Gray and Frances E. Russell. Richard J. Hinton contributes a delightful reminiscent paper on Wendell Phillips. A large number of notable papers complete an excellent issue. Detectives Search for Remains of Missing Williams Girls.

Human Bones Found in Basement Formerly Occupied by Dr. Holmes.

Part of a Watch Chain Owned by Minnie Williams Identified by Jeweller.

CHICAGO, July 20. All last night two detectives from the Central Station were digging in the basement of the building at 701 Sixty-third street, in search of the bodies of Minnie Williams and her sister, who it is rumored, had been murdered by Dr. H. H. Holmes, now under arrest in Philadelphia charged with the murder of Benjamin Pietzel.

During the World's Fair Dr. Holmes occupied the lower floor of the building and Minnie Williams and her sister lived with him. They were beautiful and possessed of considerable money. Suddenly the sisters disappeared. Nothing was thought of the matter at the time as it was supposed they had gone to friends in distant parts of the country. Last winter the arrest of Holmes for the murder of Pietzel gave rise to the rumor that both the Williams sisters had been murdered by Holmes and that their bodies had been buried in the cellar of the building occupied by Holmes.

Detectives were put to work on the case at the time and so strong was the suspicion that it was decided to excavate in the cellar for the remains of the missing sisters. This, however, was objected to by the occupants of the first floor and was abandoned. Since the finding of the supposed bodies of the Pietzel children in Toronto, the mysterious disappearance of the Williams sisters, while they were members of Dr. Holmes household, was recalled by the police, and yesterday Inspector Fitzpatrick determined upon a thorough investigation. After two hours' digging in the cellar, an old stove was uncovered and in the fire box was found a quantity of and a part of a watch chain, formerly owned and worn by Minnie Williams.

The jeweler who sold the chain to the missing girl was found and fully identified it as a portion of a chain sold by him to Minnie Williams during the World's Fair and shortly before her disappearance.

Miss Minnie Williams was possessed of $2,000 in cash and an estate of $50,000. Her friends and detectives have searched every city in the United States without finding any trace of her. Her fortune passed into the hands of Holmes and from him to a man whose name is supposed to be only another name for Holmes himself.

Miss Williams came from Fort Worth, Texas. She was still a minor when she came to Chicago and as she could not come into the possession of her property she became a stenographer. She chose to continue in her work after her fortune had come into her hands. She was employed in a down town law office and there met Holmes. Shortly after their meeting, Holmes organized the Campbell-Yates Company, and Miss Williams became stenographer for the firm. Her sister Anna was on a visit to her when both disappeared.

The Presque Isle Star Herald gets humorous thusly: As remarked elsewhere in these columns, the editor and family are now taking their annual vacation, the scene of their outing this year being Islesboro, Me. For the past fortnight the editor has put in all his spare moments in the office, chasing the foreman and compositors around regaling them with wonderful tales of what he intended to do, expected to do, and would do; of his prowess as a yachtsman, of his remarkable success in angling for the piscatorial inhabitants of the briny deep. And not content with simply bewildering his help, he has interviewed every visitor at the office, chatting with them about his prospective trip. All plans, preparations and arrangements having been completed, the editor (meanwhile growing more and more nervous and excited as the hour of his departure drew nigh) hustled himself and family off to the B. & A. depot Tuesday noon. Their baggage, consisting of grips, satchels, boxes, trunks, packages, big and small, had been carted to the depot by a truckman and left standing upon the platform. Promptly on schedule time the train arrived, the pen-pusher of the Star-Herald, having seen his family safely aboard, and, with one foot on the car steps, was about to get on board and bid Presque Isle, with all its fond and cherished memories, its tender and touching scenes, its harrowed and woeful recollections, a short adieu, when H. W. Spratt, the Bridge street music dealer, happened to chance along, and seeing the departing editor, nonchalently remarked "Got your baggage all aboard?" The face of the editor blanched a ghostly white, and in a wild and excited manner he frantically rushed to and fro, inquiring for the baggage master. Mr. Spratt quickly took in the grotesque situation, and in a measure calmed the agitated editor, found the baggage master, saw the complete paraphernalia of the editor properly checked, gave him complete and minute directions how to proceed on the rest of his journey and how to find his way around in Islesboro. It seems that, in the hustle and bustle of departure, the editor had forgotten to get his baggage checked, or even have his name attached to the various trunks and valises, and but for the opportune arrival of Mr. Spratt, he would have arrived at his destination minus his baggage.

Albert Fuller, a driver for Mr. Shannahan, the contractor, of Portland, was struck a fearful blow in the jaw by a horse he had just unharnessed. His face was terribly lacerated and bruised and it was stated that both jaws were broken.

Mrs. O. E. Wood, of Portland, at her summer cottage at Simonton's Cove, was the cleaning a dress with gasoline. She was standing near the kitchen stove and her dress caught fire. Mr. Carter, who was in the room, extinguished the flames. Mrs. Wood's hands were burnt badly and Mr. Carter's slightly.

Horace Willard, of Portland, a brakeman on the Portland & Rochester railroad, was crushed between two of L. W. Washburn's circus cars at 11 o'clock Friday night while shackling. He was taken to his home.

The other evening Mr. Frank Dunn, of Portland, was reading a paper in the office of Graffam's stable on Preble street, when a man entered, who, it is stated, is a Frenchman, and was more or less intoxicated. He made some remark about the horses of the State of Maine that aroused Mr. Dunn's ire so much that he told the Frenchman he'd better go back to his own country and not run down the place where he got his living. One word led to another and soon both men got angry and the Frenchman jumped forward and struck Dunn. The latter is a large, heavy man, about fifty years of age. He jumped up and got his foot in the rounds of the chair. In the the scuffle that followed he fell over the chair and the Frenchman fell over his leg in such a way as to break it above the knee. Not long ago he was bruised beneath a pile of falling boards. Both legs and a rib were broken and a foot was crushed. His leg, being weak, broke in the same old place.

OUT OF OUR CLASS.

Pawtuckets Easily Defeated by the Star Team Known as the Bangors—Braham Master of the Situation.

As we remarked the other day these Massachusetts and Rhode Island teams do not appear to be in our class. Let's see, how long is it since we have lost a game? We believe Fall River did manage to secure a 4 to 3 game by the aid of the umpire but we have been giving points to all of them. What ball our team has been putting up, and at last, oh at last, we have reached that 500 per cent. point.

Now that we are on firm footing we look to see the Bangors take a great climb. If they play the kind of ball they have been giving us lately there is no reason why they should not be well on New Bedford's heels in a short time. Keep it up, boys. We are proud of you and the earth is yours and the fullness thereof if you won't let down a bit.

Saturday the Pawtuckets came to this city full of confidence. Kelley was to pitch for them and they expected a victory. Their confidence got lost somehow after the second inning; there wasn't any wind so it must have been lost in the shuffle. Drinkwater started in to pitch for Bangor, the visitors going out in one, two, three order, but his arm was lame and he was dizzy and not feeling well, so little Tommy Braham, who never shirks or finds fault, but is always willing, went into the box, in spite of the fact that he pitched a magnificent game the day before.

Well, it was a pleasure to see him toss 'em up. The Pawtuckets are tremendous batters generally but, good gracious, they were not within hailing distance of the procession Saturday. Braham had them at his mercy, only five hits being made off him, one in the 4th, two in the 6th, one, a homer, in the 7th and a two-bagger in the 9th. Great pitching, wasn't it?

We believe that Bangor has two of the best pitchers in the league in Wheeler and Braham, and no man has better control or is a harder worker or livelier player than little Braham. A cat is not quicker and it is alone worth the price of admission to see him play. Barkley held him well and threw finely to bases. Sharrott was in the game Saturday—very much so. He was lively as a cricket and lined out a two bagger as easily and gracefully as of yore. What an outfield that is—Sharrott, Deady and Henry. And again, brethren, what an infield. Where is there a better outfield in this league?

O'Brien is way in it in batting nowadays, a star of the first magnitude. He made two three-baggers and a single Saturday, in the second game with New Bedford Friday he made a three-bagger, two-bagger and a single and in the first game Friday a three-bagger, at Rockland Thursday he made a two-bagger and three singles, last Wednesday he made a two-bagger and a single and Tuesday had a single to his credit. These comprise the games on the return from the last trip.

We started off Saturday for business and took the gimp all out of the visitors. Sharrott went out on a long foul fly to Barton, Henry hit the first ball pitched for a pretty single. Judd followed suit. Deady put one on the ground to Davis, advancing the others a base each. Then O'Brien walked up in a nonchalant manner and hit the second ball pitched with a mighty whang and when all the running and throwing were over O'Brien was seen on third and Henry and Judd had crossed the plate.

Moore was a patient waiter and walked to first on four balls. Haywood put a fly out to Waldron, which he ingloriously muffed, the ball rolling far away, O'Brien and Moore scoring and Haywood going to third. Barkley struck out. In the 4th inning O'Brien repeated his three bagger, this time sending in Henry, Judd and Deady. Kelley pitched a fine game for the most part, but the home team bunched hits.

Kelley saved his team from a shut out by making a homer. Lang made some fine plays, as did Hannivan. The visitors are fine players and good batters.

Deady made a magnificent running catch, Judd made a beautiful play, Haywood and Moore made a quick double play, Henry was in his usual great trim and everybody played finely, not an error being made on our side. The attendance was about 600. The score:

Notes.

The Pawtuckets and Bangors play again to-day. Wheeler will pitch for us and Meakin for the visitors. Todd doesn't want to run up against us. He has suffered at our hands. A fine game is expected. It will begin at 3 o'clock.

John L. Sullivan and company will attend the ball game this afternoon. The players of both teams have been invited to attend the performance at The Norombega this evening by his company.

George Moore returned here yesterday, looking and feeling well. He was threatened with fever and for several days was very ill, but is recovering finely. He is just in time, for we may need him any day. His knee is better, but he has to be careful with it.

Slattery has been released by Lewiston and Charlie Brady, of last year's Fall Rivers, has been ordered to report. It is said that Portland is negotiating with Slattery. We hope some team in this league will take him on for he furnishes lots of amusement when he is in the game and is a good drawing card.

Brockton plays here to-morrow and Wednesday. We want both of these games badly to keep a lead in third place.

If people want the best of amusement they should attend the ball games now. Wednesday's game is the last until next week.

Braham pitched four games last week and won three. In the other, only four runs were made off him to three for Bangor.

Wheeler has been doing his share of work this year. Out of the 62 games this season he has played some part of 40. He has been 159 times at bat; made 44 hits with a total of 70; 34 runs; 18 put outs; 80 assists; 9 errors; batting average, .316; fielding average, .916. Out of 9 errors 5 were made as a fielder, not his position.

Pitcher Daniels, of Portland, has been released.

Manager Davis has protested one of the games his Pawtucket team lost at Lewiston on the ground that a Spaulding ball was rung into the game. He says it was proven after the game.

Young Doldn, of last year's New England League, gets by far the smallest salary of any of the Boston pitchers and lately has been the most successful of the lot.

It looks very nice to be in third place. What's the matter with a go at second place?

Dilworth seems to have been "born again."

Kennebecs, accept our most hearty thanks.

The double-umpire system must come next season, they say. Pres. N. E. Young will recommend the change, and most of the league magnets are satisfied to pay out a little more money for umpire service.

The Pawtuckets are at the Windsor during their stay in this city.

The following is the schedule of games in the New England League this week:

Monday—Pawtucket at Bangor; Brockton at Augusta; Fall River at Portland; New Bedford at Lewiston.

Tuesday and Wednesday—Pawtucket at Augusta; Brockton at Bangor; Fall River at Lewiston; New Bedford at Portland.

Thursday—Bangor at Portland; Augusta at Lewiston; Fall River at New Bedford; Brockton at Pawtucket.

Friday—Bangor at Portland; Augusta at Lewiston; New Bedford at Pawtucket; Brockton at Fall River.

Saturday—Bangor at Lewiston; Pawtucket at New Bedford; Fall River at Brockton.

THE PYRAMIDS OF EGYPT.

How Were They Reared and How Was the Material Gathered?

The pyramids of Egypt, for long and to this day included among the world's wonders, are to be regarded as marvelous triumphs of mechanical skill. Of these there are many scattered over the Nile valley, some of brick, some of stone and of varied height. The two largest are in the neighborhood of Cairo. They are and have been for thousands of years the most colossal monuments in the world.

The largest, that of Cheops, in its original state is said to have been 800 feet high and the length of its base on each side the same. It is built of huge stones ranging from 3 to 4 feet in height. It is now rugged and has the character as well as the appearance of a four sided great stairway. The hollows between the steps are believed to have been filled in with white marble, which would shine like snow under the bright Egyptian sun. The pyramid is now much reduced in height, not being more than 500 feet. It is generally admitted that the pyramids were built for tombs and on certain astronomical principles.

There is an inner chamber where the sarcophagus was placed. When a monarch began to reign, he commenced to build his tomb. When he died, his body was placed in the sacred chamber prepared for it, and the opening which led to it was closed. The pyramid was then completed. If the monarch's reign was long, the pyramid was large. If short, the pyramid was small.

How those great structures were reared—how the huge masses were brought together and put in their places—is a question which has never been satisfactorily answered. Of mechanical forces some of the early peoples seem to have had much more knowledge than there is any direct record of.—Chicago Record.

AN OLD PRUSSIAN DISH.

"Beerfish" Is Alleged to Be Good When It Is Served Steaming Hot.

There is a dish dear to every Prussian's heart, which may be, however, absolutely new in this country. All Germans may not know it, as it is not made in south Germany except in isolated cases. Beer is not its chief ingredient, but it plays an important part in the makeup.

The dish is known as beerfish, and the German carp, praised of epicures, is herein treated in a manner worthy of the fish. It must be made with half beer, or, in the absence of this, with weiss beer and porter. The fish is cut, not in half, like a shad, but in sections or squares. Three or four cuts across the fish are all that is necessary. Of course the fish must be cleaned.

A large glazed pot is used. A layer of large onions is placed on the bottom of the pot. On this are sprinkled various spices; then a layer of a substance called fish pfefferkuchen, which has more or less fish substance in it and can be procured at any German grocery or delicatessen store; then a layer of sliced lemon; then carp. This is repeated until the pot is full.

A layer of onions is placed on top and beer is poured into the whole mass until all the interstices are filled. It is cooked for 20 minutes over a slow fire, meantime adding a spoonful of vinegar and another of sugar. Beerfish is delicious when it is cooked and served steaming hot. But its good qualities do not end here, for after it is cold it offers allurements which make it hard to decide which way it tastes better, hot or cold.—Philadelphia Times.

In the Best.

Kentuckians are always proud of their state in whatever department of human labor they may hold. Not long ago a widow went to see a marble cutter to get a tombstone for her late husband. She selected a plain one from his stock and gave him an inscription to put on it.

"Can't do that, ma'am," he said politely when he had read it.

"Why not?" she asked in surprise. "I'm paying for it."

"Yes, but I can't put that on. I stretch my conscience a good many times in what I put on a tombstone, but I ain't going to tell a plain lie when I know it."

The widow was greatly shocked and insisted on his explaining what he meant.

"Well, ma'am," he said, "you've got here 'gone to a better land,' and that ain't so, ma'am. There ain't any better land than Kentucky."—Detroit Free Press.

Better.

Death of Capt Phineas Pendleton

In the death of Capt Phineas Pendleton, of Searsport, which occurred Friday night, Maine loses one of its old time sea captains of much business capacity and a prominent and highly respected citizen. His age was 89 years. He was a man of striking appearance and many qualities united in making him a profitable friend and acquaintance. He had many friends in Bangor who will be pained to learn of his death

Capt Pendleton was born in Searsport in 1806, and has always made that place his home. He came to Bangor 72 years ago as cook of the schooner Sally, being 16 years of age at the time. In after years he became interested with Gibbs & Phillips who carried on a shipyard in this city, whom he assisted in their business by taking parts of the vessels which they built

His brother, Nathan Pendleton, was a member of the firm of Pendleton & Ross, of this city

Among the vessels in which he was interested, was the Lucas Pendleton of 1 400 tons which was burned. The Wealthy Pendleton of 1000 tons was built and loaded for Europe with deals, but was purchased by a Boston man. The check for $85 000 which came from Boston in payment was the largest check that had ever been seen here. Another of Capt Pendleton's vessels, the Delphine, was commanded by Capt Nichols his son-in-law and was burned by the Alabama. Capt Pendleton's daughter was on board at the time she was seized. He also built the Alina and the David Brown. Capt Pendleton and the other owners of the vessel that was burned received damages from the English government after many years

Capt Pendleton's father was Phineas Pendleton, who was born in Stonington, Conn. His mother was Nancy Gilmore, of Belfast. There were twelve children, and there are now several still living within a radius of two miles excepting one who resides in New York. All have reached a ripe old age and a family reunion a year ago was a most interesting occasion.

Captain Pendleton had ten children, six of whom are still living, and he has numerous grandchildren, one of whom is Mr William Field of this city, bookkeeper for Emerson & Adams

His hearty and genial manners, story telling capacity and extended experiences in all parts of the world made him a most entertaining companion

He was a frequent visitor to Bangor and enjoyed the social calls which he made upon his old time friends, who in turn fully appreciated his visits. Of all the intimates with whom he used to associate Charles D Bryant, Esq is the only one now surviving

Capt Pendleton's funeral will occur from his late residence in Searsport this afternoon

Mr Gilman Cram's Tribute

To the Editor of The Whig and Courier

In the death of the late Captain Phineas Pendleton S... as well as his native town, the community at large have sustained the loss of a grand old man. As a citizen Searsport must feel it deeply. My acquaintance with him began nearly forty years ago, I at that time being so situated that I saw him often. His occupation was seafaring from his early youth till within a few years. He was master and builder of some of the finest ships that sailed the ocean in former years and was engaged in the cotton trade between New Orleans and Europe. Let the times be good or bad he never lacked a freight for his vessels and always made them pay. So popular and reliable was he that his friends at every port where he was bound would hold a freight for him before his arrival. He was interested with the late Francis Gibbs in building and sailing the ship David Brown built here. He was possessed of a remarkable disposition, kind, obliging and generous and in every respect a gentleman. The family of which I think he was the eldest was a very remarkable one. The sons were all ship masters. In the late issue of the Commercial it was in error in referring to him as a partner of the firm of Pendleton & Ross. It was a brother, Captain Nathan Pendleton, I being connected with Mr Ross and the firm some eight years, know about. He was the builder of the house near the Central church on French street now occupied by W C Tilman, Esq. He was interested in and sailed the ship Premier built by the Coopers also the Bell Rock and quite a number of others. As a ship master and in other capacities he was a very popular man and at one time he was president of the Bangor Steam Navigation Company which built and ran the Eastern State commanded by the late Captain Flowers between here and Boston in 1857 and 1858. He was attacked with softening of the brain and lived but a short time

GILMAN CRAM

High School Cadets Encampment.

Congressman Boutelle has received the following communication from Lieut. Col. D P. Heap, Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, regarding the proposed encampment of the Bangor High School Cadets at Fort Knox, granting the desired permission.

PORTLAND, Me., July 20, 1895,

HON. C. A. BOUTELLE,

Bangor, Maine.

DEAR SIR:

I am pleased to inform you that the War Department has approved my recommendation that the High School Cadets, of Bangor, Maine, have permission to encamp on the United States grounds at Fort Knox in August or September.

I have given the necessary instructions to the Ordnance Sergeant in charge.

Very respectfully,

D. P. HEAP,

Lieut. Col. Corps of Engineers.

PROBATE COURT COMMISSION

Report to the Supreme Court Will Be Made in About a Week

Judge Burgess, of the Probate Court has returned from Portland, where he has been attending the session of the State Probate Court commission, of which he is a member, and goes back to Portland to-morrow to stay until the meeting is concluded. The commission are nearly through with their work of arranging a uniform method of procedure for the Maine Probate Courts and will report to the July law term of the Supreme Judicial Court, now in session in Portland, the last of this week or the first of next week.

The commissioners have put in a great deal of hard work since beginning their sessions which have been held in different places in the State and hope to have a satisfactory arrangement of court method when they get through. They do not expect perfection exactly, as some mistakes may have crept in, but if such have occurred they can be remedied, and the final outcome it is hoped will meet the court needs.

In beginning their labors they found the State Probate Court business in a chaotic state owing to the fact that each county had its own methods and different interpretations were put upon matters for decision by the judges as they construed the statutes. In addition to the arrangement of the blanks the commissioners were called upon to decide many knotty questions regarding the law and their method of decision was to put them to vote, after a full discussion of the points at issue

Some of the business methods and expressions in use had come from early colonial times and it was found that the modern procedure demanded a clearer understanding of what was meant and also that the idea might be more concisely expressed. Many superfluous words and phrases have been eliminated and additions made, when necessary, and the judges will in the future have a better idea what is required of them

The printing of the new blanks, etc, which will make quite a large volume, will have several proof revisions, for typographical error corrections and for such changes as may be desired at the last moment and when that has been completed a copy will be sent to each of the justices of the Supreme Court and to each county in the State

The justices will examine the new methods of procedure and if they meet with their approval they will become a law in due time. The final printing of the results of the labors of the commissioners will be done in Biddeford, the home of the secretary in order that he may be conveniently at hand to see that everything is exactly correct in each detail

Maine Pensioners

State Pension Agent R. F Black has completed the figures covering the business of the United States Pension Agency for the district of Maine for the fiscal year ending June 30th. The total number of pensioners on the roll is 19 710. This is a gain during the year of 192

They are divided as follows —Under the general law of invalids, 10 233, widows, 3 028, under the act June 27th, 1890, invalids, 4 840, widows, 1,313

There are five army nurses on the roll and one survivor of the war of 1812, Edward Smart, of Dixmont, who was 98 years of age and was one of these survivors, died during the year. The widows of 1812 number 200 and 30 have died. The survivors of the Mexican war are 51, the same as last year, 3 new ones having been added and 3 having died. There are now 6 Mexican war widows. There is but one survivor of the Indian war. The loss has been 2 and there are 8 widows

There are 588 original pensions allowed, 433 transferred from other agencies, 100 restored after being dropped, 589 had their pensions increased and 209 received additional pensions

There has been lost by death 679, remarriage 22, children become of age 23, transferred to other agencies 81, failure to make claim for three years 1, other causes 31

The number who died is larger than ever before and they increase rapidly from year to year so that in future pensioners will not be likely to increase in number unless more liberal laws are enacted to admit those who are not now eligible

The total disbursements of the agency have been $3 009 495 60, an increase of $40 038 34

NARROW ESCAPES FROM WATERSPOUTS IN MEXICO

A Traveler Relates Two Experiences He Had With These Twisting Terrors—A Congregation of Them Each of Which Was Nearly 1,000 Feet In Height.

The narrowest escape I ever had was from a congregation of waterspouts. I was making a trip to some of the small islands in the gulf of Mexico about 50 miles from Cuba, a spot famous for its waterspouts and in the summer months there were few days that one or more were not seen. Generally a long attenuated black cloud would appear, from which would drop a pendulous cloud. Lower it would descend, resembling the lower portion of a balloon and when about half way to the water a corresponding figure would be seen rising to meet it. Finally the two would join and the column from 400 to 1 000 feet high more or less would move away before the wind bending before it like a gigantic bow—a thing of terror, a frightful object of the sea.

I had been visiting an island about ten miles from our camp and was in a heavy sailboat—too heavy to manipulate by oars readily. When half way home on the edge of the channel the wind died completely away and I noticed all about us a number of strange black clouds.

Watching them closely and commenting upon them to my man I suddenly saw the ominous dropping of a pointed index finger not a sixteenth of a mile away. As I mentioned it my companion pointed behind me to another and in less than five minutes five of these dread objects dropped from the clouds about us

There was not a breath of air and there was an ominous silence. Even the ever present gulls seemed to have deserted the place. We got out the oars and endeavored to pull but the boat was too heavy and we were compelled to await developments

The cloud tips slowly dropped and all about us mysterious columns rose up to meet them until in a few minutes we were surrounded by these huge pillars so that in one direction the heavens appeared to be supported upon these watery columns. A more remarkable sight cannot be imagined, and when they began to move we gave ourselves up for lost as two appeared to be bearing down upon us.

As good luck would have it they seemed to bring a breeze and we were able to get under way, and fortunately escaped. The two giants came careering down upon us—a spectacle to demoralize the stout hearted. One passed not 200 feet away rushing on with a noise like that of a steam engine. I could distinctly see the terrible twisting and whirling motion of the water and for a large area about it there was what appeared to be a heavy rain

The spouts began to move as soon as they were complete and very soon assumed the bend or bow shape that characterizes them and went sailing away. These giants were still that I could not venture to estimate the height. My companion said a mile high and they certainly looked it, but they were under 1 000 feet

My nearest approach to a waterspout occurred later ... dissipated ... the ... Ono was that a spout was broken when touched or interfered with in any way yet I saw this water giant ... land

I was lying in the sands near our camp one day when a ... came into view from the south. It was heading directly for us but we felt perfectly safe as there was a large ... and long canal ... between ... and ... the ... upon passing the ... of ... grand spectacle and every one in the island was seen watching it. It moved rapidly up the ... its upper portions apparently lost in the clouds. If it had continued ... between the two islands and so reached the open sea but for some ... its course was changed ... and with ... it struck the island ... We fully expected to see how it ... but it kept plowing up the sand and soon struck a good sized schooner that had been hauled on the beach whirling it about end for end like a feather. Then to our consternation ... for our island ... with a great bow ... curve rushed on

The distance from island to island was a good mile, but ... there was not much time to debate ... the spout was now half way across. Seeing that it was veering off and would probably not reach us I ran out on to a sea wall and watched it. It gradually lifted to the south and in a few moments struck our shoal with a roar like that of a locomotive

As I looked up the top seemed a great canopy of water lost in the black clouds, down from which poured great drops which soon drenched me through. The center of the great curve I could not see at all for some singular reason while the lower end or portion now but 100 yards away was rushing by in a magnificent column of water boiling and hissing like some living thing. I literally raced with it for the length of the wall 600 or 800 feet and had all I could do to keep pace with it

The water of the shoal was but a few feet deep and I found later that it cut a deep trench in it as it went along, the coral sand and mud looking as though a dredger had been at work. How long a spout can travel over the land I do not know but not long. The bay over which this one passed was not over 500 feet at that place. The spout passed us, beating us in the race and soon disappeared among the dark clouds on the horizon. As common as were these phenomena in this region I never heard of a casualty though from the above it will be seen that narrow escapes were not rare.—Cor. San Francisco Call.

Was Obliged to Go

"Hello Harkaway are you still in town? I thought you had moved out west and gone into the mining business."

"No I didn't go. That scheme fell through."

"Then you are not going to leave us?"

"Oh yes. I'm getting ready to move."

"Where are you going?"

"I haven't decided yet. But I've got to go somewhere, Higgins. The boys in the clubs I belong to have given me half a dozen farewell dinners and as a gentleman and a man of my word I can't stay here any longer after that."—Baltimore Herald.

Louis Philippe and Soult.

Louis Philippe knew that Marshal Soult clung to power and that his fall would be bitter to him. But when the time came the future ministers, with Thiers at their head, were assembled at the Tuileries while in the next room Louis Philippe broke the news to Soult. The interview took a long time, and the new ministers were not without some apprehension. Finally the door was opened just enough to allow the king's queer pear shaped head to pass, and he whispered "A little patience, gentlemen. Just a little patience—we are weeping together."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Looking Forward.

"Young man," said the female physician, "you are in a bad way. I'll continue to call on you."

The sufferer raised himself on his elbow, looked at her tenderly and said, "I've no objection, but I would advise you first to see papa."—Adams (Mass.) Freeman.

SCHOOLBOY KNOWLEDGE

Some of the Funny Blunders of Which Pupils Are Capable

The roll of our naval heroes is still increasing for a schoolteacher has recently learned from her pupils that "Shakespeare became a French admiral, Milton a Dutch admiral." There is something solemn in the statement that Bullet—his grave was made a pillar ... geography possibly suggested that guerrillas were men who saw to the guillotine and that Doomsday Book was so called because it was to last till the crack of doom.
